PITTSBURGH

No. 122, Broadway, New-York, | No. 2, South Third street, Philadelphia
No. 151, Market street, Baltimore, | No. 449, S. Market street, Albany.

The great advantage possessed by this brilliant Scheme over others, is, that for one third of the ving tickets may be held without any chance of loseing, as the first 4000 blanks will be entitled to Dollars each and all the Prizes of 1000 Dollars and 500 are floa ing in the wheel. It will be observed, the tickets are only 25 DOLLARS each, one half the price, of those in the BALTIMORE SURGICAL RIAR, and instead of giving the $100,000 to one adventurer, it is divided into ONE HUNDRED zes of $1000 each.

Prizes in the fourth class, & in the Baltimore New York & Lotteries received in payment for tickets.

LIVERY STABLE.

(Wood street, between Diamond alley & Fifth-st)

George Steward,

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of this city and its vicinity, that he has opened a Livery Stable, where he intends to carry it on in a manner calculated to do justice to himself and accommodate all others who may please to give him a call, having altered his stable expressly for the purpose, which is inferior to none in the place. He also intends to keep good riding horses to hire—calculated for journeys of any length. Having procured careful managers to superintend the business, he will be enabled to give general satisfaction.

Good saddles and bridles in every case shall be furnished, necessary for the comfort of the rider—when thus caparisoned it is presumed that justice will be done to horses, so justly their due.

Terms of hire and other affairs relative to the establishment, made known at the time of hiring.

He has also laid in an excellent quantity of oats and hay, and feed of every description.

Gentlemen committing horses to his care, may rest assured of unremitting attention in every particular.

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE

JOHN I. SCULL. 60.

Friday, February 27, 1818.

FOR THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

One of the strongest arguments in favour of the republican form of government is, that its deliberations are conducted by a representative body selected from the people, and composed of their wisest and most patriotic citizens. Such men are supposed to be governed by the voice of reason and of justice, and to be guided by no other impulse than a love for their country and a solicitude for its dignity, prosperity, and honour. They are supposed to think like sages and to feel like men, and while with stern integrity they wield the great machine of government, to preserve unsullied those principles which bid them to love their neighbour as themselves, and those nicer feelings which cause the heart to beat for individual oppression or distress, and the hand to be stretched to its relief. If ever the representatives of any people under Heaven could be supposed to cherish such sentiments, they might be expected in those of our country, which has been emphatically termed the last refuge of liberty. Our independence was gained by prodigies of valour and discretion and at the expense of the blood of thousands of our fathers—it was secured by an exertion of wisdom, purity, and forbearance greater than the world had ever witnessed.

With such ideas, what must be the astonishment of him who examines the debates of our congress. At the last session he would find those men whose "immaculate purity" like that of the Spanish King, could not be doubted, neglecting the important concerns of the republic and devoting whole days to sordid discussions upon the beggarly pittance which must reward their meritorious services. Like the priests of ancient days they seemed to feel more solicitude to preserve their tythes than to secure the happiness of those committed to their care. We see them again, like the electors of the Germanic Empire meeting to elect a sovereign, and like them, paying more deference to hereditary claims than individual worth. Several candidates for the sovereignty appear, but as one only can be selected, the others are soothed by promises of future patronage, and from rivals become the supporters and heirs apparent of him who is appointed to be the "favorite of the people." The representatives of a proud and independent nation, are next beheld as puppets in the show of executive grandeur, acting in the pageant of a coronation, and worshiping with servile adulation, the golden calf which they have made.

At the present session they have perhaps been more fortunate, for if they have done but little to excite the admiration of the present uncharitable age, they have caused their names to be celebrated in song and handed down to posterity.—They have shewn their incorruptible integrity, and have forced a man infirm in years, though young in intrigue,—a man who for his country had met poverty without repining, and danger without fear, to tremble before their august tribunal. Grasping at the golden opportunity, they changed a private indignity into a public wrong, and magnanimously forgetting private friends, and private feelings, exerted every flower of rhetoric and nerve of eloquence to hurl disgrace upon the victim of imprudence and to bestow upon the nation golden maxims on the subject of legislative corruption.

Shortly after this proof of justice and generosity, a citizen of the United States addresses a petition to our enlightened congress, urging, not an eleemosinary prayer for charity, but a just and legal claim. In this humble petitioner we recognise a hoary veteran, who devoted the strength and manhood of his days, to the service of his country, and in the hour of darkness and of danger, was in the council one of the wisest & most firm, in the field among the most vigilant and undaunted. His personal liberty, his fortune, and his life were exposed with a freedom amounting to prodigality—and what is his reward?—poverty and misery are his inmates, and he receives neglect and scorn, from a people who should have soothed his cares, supported his existence, cherished his honour and immortalised his name. From a race of men who were "puling and puking in their nurses' arms" when he was fighting for the independence which they now enjoy—from the children of his companions in arms, or from the offspring of foreign miscreants who came to share the harvest he had toiled to gather—he asks for justice. He finds his claims barred, not by any article in the constitution of his country, not by any law of natural right, but by an act passed for the convenience of society and the prevention of litigation. Regardless of honour, of gratitude, or of shame, the very men who so vauntingly displayed the liberality of their sentiments in condemning an error of judgement in an obscure individual, forget those sentiments when called on to exert them in behalf of a brave, a faithful, an unfortunate soldier of the republic. If a signal instance of national ingratitude should be sought, none can be found to exceed that which has been shewn to this "hero of the revolution." He lives, a burthen to himself and a shame to his country, and the wreath of glory which history will entwine about his brow, will serve as a lasting monument to teach succeeding ages to honour one, and to despise the other.

BRUTUS.

KENTUCKY.

Treasury Speculation.—John P. Thomas, late Treasurer of the state of Kentucky, has proven a publick defaulter to the amount of 26,608 dollars. Upon the discovery of this defalcation being communicated to the legislature by the auditor, an inquiry was instituted, and it was found that about 17,000 dollars of this sum had been lent by the treasurer on interest, for his own benefit, about 2 years since; and that the remainder had been blended among his own private funds, and, with them, had unaccountably disappeared. Upon the exposure of the transaction, Mr. Thomas resigned and the legislature brought suit against him. It now appeared that his bond had not been signed by the proper number of sureties, and that the oath of office had not been administered to him by the secretary of state, in presence of the lieut. governour: and hereupon a vote of censure was, 36 to 19, passed upon the two officers last mentioned. Sufficient sureties have been obtained, and the state will finally lose nothing. What is very extraordinary, and worthy of remark is, that but a few weeks previous to this discovery, and at a time when at least one member of the house knew of the loans made by the treasurer, a joint committee reported the treasury to be in good order, safe and sound, books and accounts square and correct! Do they not "order these things" very strangely—in Kentucky? Green. Gaz.

Boston, Feb. 14.

ALARMING COUNTERFEIT BILLS.

On Thursday, we received letters from the Cashiers of the Banks at Hartford, stating, that a person had been taken up there, on suspicion of passing $20 bills of the Gloucester Bank, (being Perkin's patent Stereotype Plate) as about $2000 were found on him in 20 and 50 dollar bills—but being unable to say they were bad, they enclosed two $20 bills to us. After examining them ourselves, and by most of the Brokers, and several of the Clerks in the Bank, it was almost an unanimous opinion that they were genuine—but the idea of a person having so large an amount of bills on a bank near 150 miles from where they were issued, induced us to send them to the Cashier of the Bank, who has returned them to us crossed, as counterfeit. We state all these particulars, to show how well they are done, and how dangerous it will be to do business if every one are not on their guard of whom they receive bills. The Cashier enclosed us a genuine bill which has G. B. in a water mark, and says the signatures in the counterfeits are not well done, and that there is a little difference in the paper—but we are confident these bills would pass among nine tenths of the people, without suspicion.

GILBERT & DEAN,
Old State House.

FROM THE NEWHAMPSHIRE CENTINEL.

INLAND NAVIGATION.

Port of Keene Jan 24, 1818.

Arrived this morning, and anchored for a short time, with a good chain cable, at the water place situated at the confluence of the five passages, in this village, the novel built vehicle called the Travelling Abode, with a crew of nine hands, old and young, male and female, being the family of Mr. Nickerson. The Travelling Abode was eleven days out from the port of Saco, in the Desert of Maine, and was bound to Albridge in the Land of Promise. She being constructed on an entire new plan, combining many advantages not before known, we shall give some description of her, for the benefit of such, if any there be, who are feeding on the "leafless twigs" that are here and there found in the vallies of the great Desart of New England, and who may be disposed to join Caravan and venture a passage across the sands to the Tombuctoo of America.

She is about 20 feet long, square forward and aft, four feet and a half wide, and about 7 feet high. The entrance opens on the side. One window on each side, admits sufficient light for the apartment. On opening the door we discovered the Captain's wife and children sitting before a comfortable fire, in the stove, which was secured to the floor, while the pipe went out through the roof. She was laden principally with furniture, had good accommodations for lodging and cooking, and most of the household conveniences. Some of the crew always lodged on board, and the good lady did the cooking at the stove for all hands. When we saw her she had just cleared away after breakfast, and was preparing to take her knitting work. The vehicle rested on two short sleds and was drawn by eight oxen.

After getting a good supply of water and laying in a small store of crackers, she went off through the Chesterfield passage, in presence of many spectators, who were not a little delighted at the novel appearance of a moving cottage, with the curling smoke issuing from the chimney top, and the apparent happiness of the emigrants.

Utica, (New York,) Feb. 10.

EXECUTION.—Friday next is the day appointed for the execution of the five malefactors under sentence of death for murder—namely, John Harris, John O'Brien, David Linus, John Denny, and Roswell T. Pratt. We have been requested to admonish people not to attend the Execution at Rome on Friday next. But we do not know that we can address to them any considerations calculated to dissuade them, except such as will readily occur to every reflecting person. If the deepness of the snow; the inclemency of the weather; the impossibility of having accommodations, if a multitude should witness the spectacle, especially of having access to a fire after the Execution; the severe sufferings to which those who do attend, will unavoidably be exposed, are not sufficient to deter people from attending, we presume nothing can be said that will have any influence.

Boston, February 13.

In the Senate yesterday, the resolve for procuring a Bust of the Hon. John Adams, to be placed in one of the Halls of the State House, was indefinitely postponed; and it was Ordered, That a committee be appointed to consider the expediency of procuring Busts or Portraits of George Washington, John Hancock, Samuel Adams, James Otis, John Adams, and Benjamin Franklin, for the purpose of their being placed in the State House of Massachusetts; also, to consider the propriety of erecting a Monument of American Marble to perpetuate the memory of the brave General Joseph Warren, on the spot where he fell; and how far the recollection of any other revolutionary patriot may be preserved and inculcated upon posterity by procuring any likenesses of them for such disposition, with leave to report at the first session of the next General Court.

On Sunday evening last, about 10 o'clock, lightening was observed in this town in the southeasterly part of the horizon. The cold was very severe the three succeeding days.

KEEN (N. H.) Feb. 5.

Comfort in Old Age.—The widow Lydia Gowing, now living in Jaffrey, aged 83 years, is the mother of 12 children, (8 sons and 4 daughters.) This feeble, old and widowed mother, together with her 12 children, 8 daughters-in-law and two sons-in-law, met at the house of her son, capt. Joseph Gowing, in Dublin, on the 3d inst. not having before seen her children assembled in one group for the space of 34 years. The joyful meeting was celebrated by a sleigh ride, in regular procession through the centre of the town, and by the interchange of those sentiments which bespeak filial, fraternal and parental affection, at the house of Joseph, who like that Joseph the son of good old Jacob, had called around him his aged parent, and his dispersed brethren to rejoice with him, after so long a separation.

The widowed heart of the aged mother must have "moved within her" when she considered the goodness of God, in permitting her to behold, after four score years had whitened her venerable locks, the whole number of 100 children drawn in a circle around her, in the possession of health, and all, save one, living in the enjoyment of matrimonial bliss. She has had 12 own children, 13 sons and daughters-in law, 74 grand children, and one great grand child, making the round number of 100 in all. Two daughters-in-law, and 19 grand children have paid the debt of nature, leaving 79 of the above number still living.

Valuable Real estate for sale.

PURSUANT to the last Will and Testament of the late Col. RICHARD BROWN, deceased I NOW OFFER FOR SALE,

The Farm on which he resided

On the Ohio River, in Holliday's Cove, in Brooke County, Virginia.

This Estate consists of about 700 Acres of Land 250 of which is a rich Island, the remainder principally second bottom and upland; that part the upland which is not tillable, is covered with timber suitable for furnishing the Island and tillable part with fencing and building timber. There is between 150 and 200 acres cleared and under cultivation, a suitable proportion of which is good meadow land. The buildings consist in two log dwelling houses and a log barn with under story of stone. It is well supplied with very fine springs of good water.

The situation of this property on the Ohio River five miles from the flourishing Town of Steubenville, and in the neighbourhood of several Merchant Mills, Iron Works, &c. renders it a desirable object to a person who would wish to farm extensively, as he would probably at all times find a good market at his door for the produce of his farm. A part of the purchase will be required in hand, and for the remainder a reasonable credit will be given.

PITTSBURGH.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1818

In the House of Delegates of VIRGINIA, a proposition to tax the Branches of the Bank of the United States in that state, has received a decided negative, by a vote of 7 to 24.

Official accounts, by way of Charleston, leave no room for a doubt of the fate of the unfortunate MINA, if any yet remained. He was shot, pursuant to orders from Apodaca, the Vice-Roy, on the top of the hill Gallaco, at that time the Head Quarters of Field Marshal de Linau.

A glimpse of toleration.—The Quebec papers mention, that the Catholic Bishop of that province has been called to the Legislative Council by a writ of summons; and has taken his seat; the first Catholic Prelate which has had any share in British legislation since the expulsion of the STUARTS.

Cold Weather.—The Montreal Herald of the 31st ult. says, "Yesterday and to day have been colder than any day remembered for more than 20 years past in this city. Yesterday morning, at 10 minutes past 7 o'clock, the Thermometer stood at 32, and this morning at 29, below zero."

The Newburyport Herald mentions, that the Bank Fishing Company of that town, have divided an interest of 18 per cent. the past year, on its capital.

Newspaper Reports.—We find it currently reported in the newspapers, that Mr. Gallatin is about to retire from the situation of our Minister to France; and, as we have said in private conversation, that, with his well-known economial habits, he has, like every other Minister whom we have had abroad, found the salary of his office totally inadequate to his support, the rumor of his intended return is possibly not without foundation.

It is probable there is less foundation for the various rumors, whatever plausibility the merits of the gentlemen named may give to them, respecting Mr. Gallatin's successor, who certainly has not been designated, even in thought, before the intention of Mr. G. to retire is ascertained.

Nat. Intel.

The question respecting the establishment of an uniform system of bankruptcy, under debate in the House of Representatives. ib.

From The N. Y. Daily Advertiser of Feb. 17.

INDIAN WARFARE.

We learn by Captain M. of the schr. Wasau, that considerable alarm existed among the inhabitants of the town of Lakely, on account of the reported movements of the hostile Indians. Thirty warriors had crossed the Perdido, and were said to be on their way to the town of Lakely, they had reached the Cowpens, killing many cattle and committing other depredations. The inhabitantsts of Blakeley were under arms.

To the politeness of capt. H. we are indebted for a file of the Mobile Gazette to the 17th Jan. inclusive. In the latest, a meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Mobile was called on business relating to the safety of the town from the attacks of the savages.

Rise of Real Estate in Virginia.—Part of an acre of land in Lynchburgh, (Virginia) sold in January, 1817, for $16,600; and on the 23d of last January was re-sold at auction, at over Six hundred per cent profit!

VALUABLE PRIZE.

Norfolk, (Vir) Feb. 12.

We learn from a gentleman who has lately arrived in town, that the Buenos Ayrean brig El Patriota, (formerly the Fourth of July) Com. Taylor, has captured off the Canaries, 24 sail, one of which was a Spanish Galeon, having on board A MILLION AND A HALF OF DOLLARS!—With which she had an action of 2 hours and 15 minutes, on the 2d. of December. The Patriota had 5 killed and 9 wounded,—among whom, the Commodore himself, slightly.

From the N. Y. Columbian, Feb. 4.

From a highly valuable correspondent we learn that "the agent of the South American Patriots has presented a long remonstrance to our government, on the violence done them at Amelia Island. The agent was received with great politeness by the president and secretary of state, which indicates a new feeling, for when Aguirre presented his credentials from Buenos Ayres, his reception was very different. Commodore Aury complains of all his private property being taken from him at Amelia."

LEGISLATURE OF NEW-YORK.

On motion of Mr. Meigs, the house unanimously agreed to the following recital and resolution:

"Whereas it is represented to this assembly, that the remains of the gallant GENERAL MONTGOMERY, who fell at Quebeck, lie buried near the spot where he received his mortal wound, undistinguished by any monument whatever. Therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to take into consideration and report to the assembly, a bill, the object of which shall be to provide the means of removing those remains to St. Paul's Church, in the city of New-York, there to be deposited near the monument erected in that church to the memory of that gallant and patriotic soldier.

Ordered, that Messrs. Meigs, Morris, Colden, Duer and Jackson, be the said committee.

NEW-ORLEANS, Jan. 12

Yesterday morning, about 4 o'clock, the wind suddenly shifted from N. to N. W. accompanied by a heavy fall of rain, sleet and snow, Before 9 o'clock the snow lay on a dead level about one inch thick—at 5 the thermometer was at 27. In the afternoon the ground being partially covered with snow and ice, the sleighs were seen driving through the streets, & excited no little astonishment among the natives at such a novel mode of riding.

"The Devil to pay among Tailors."

A meeting of merchant and master tailors was held on the 8th inst. at Philadelphia, for the purpose of petitioning congress on the subject of importing ready made clothing. Committees were appointed to draft an address and petition, and to correspond with the trade in other states on the propriety of the measure.

N. Y. Eve. Post.

Paper money.—The origin of this species of circulating medium is of much higher antiquity, than is generally supposed. The Chinese who have anticipated so many of our most useful and curious inventions, appear also to have a claim to this. In a remarkable compilation, entitled. "The Manners, Laws and Customs of all Nations," printed in 1611, it is said, that the Chinese have paper money four square, and stamped with the king's image, which, when it waxeth old, they change with the king for coine that is new stamped.

SALEM, February 13.

"OUR RED BRETHERN."

A number of the principal men of Penobscot tribe of Indians have lately been to Boston on business with the legislature.—About a week since, eight of them spent a night in this town on their return home; and yesterday two others were here, and waited on the Rev. Mr. Bentley, with whose polite attentions they were highly gratified. At the Coffee House they exhibited some specimens of national customs and manners. This race of people, in all their native ferocity, were the terror of our forefathers; but now degraded, humbled, and nearly extirpated, excite our sympathy and compassion.

INTERESTING TO FARMERS.

The summer of 1816, having been remarkably cold and unfavorable, the harvest was very late, and much of the grain, especially oats, was green in October. In the beginning of October the cold was so great, that in one night there was produced on ponds near Kinnell, in the neighbourhood of Bo'ness ice, three quarters of an inch thick. It was apprehended by many farmers, that such a degree of cold would effectually prevent further filling and ripening of their corn. In order to ascertain this point, Dr. Rockbuck selected several stocks of oats, of nearly equal fullness, and immediately cut those, which on the most attentive comparison appeared the best, and marked the others, but allowed them to remain in the field fourteen days longer; at the end of which time they too were cut, and kept in a dry room for ten days. The grains of each parcel were then weighed; when eleven of the grains that had been left standing in the field were found equal in weight to thirty of the grains which had been cut a fortnight sooner, though some of the grains were far from being ripe. During that fortnight (from the 7th October to 21st) the average heat, according to Farenheit's Thermometer, was little above 46. Dr. Rockbuck observes, that the ripening and filling of corn in so low a temperature should be the less surprising, when we reflect that the seed corn will vegetate in the same degree of heat; and he draws an important inference from his observations, viz. that farmers should be cautious of cutting down their unripe corn, on the supposition that in a cold autumn it could fill no more.

ROYAL PAY TO POETS.

It is said, that Walter Scott has been paid, by his booksellers half a crown a line, for some of his poetical productions.

The poor of Spitalfields, which was last winter the scene of more distress than any other district in the metropolis, are now so fully employed, that there is hardly an adequate supply of silk for the workmen

London paper.

The Cast Iron Bridge over the river Irwell, from Salford to Strangeways, is so nearly complete, that the painters are employed upon it. It is of one arch only, 120 feet span. It has been completed in the short space of 8 months, by the Colebrookdale Company, who contracted to build it. The economy of time and expense exhibited in this erection, proves the advantage of cast iron bridges over stone; whilst its light and airy appearance has given a beauty to the river (especially when viewed from Huntsbank) which no other description of bridges would have afforded. ib.

VALUE OF TIME.

The difference of rising every morning at six and eight o'clock, in the course of 40 years, supposing a person to go to bed at the same time he otherwise would, amount to twenty-nine thousand two hundred hours, or three years, one hundred and twenty-one days, and sixteen hours, which afford eight hours per day, for exactly ten years, so that it is the same as if ten years of life (a weighty consideration) were added, in which we may command eight hours every day, for the cultivation of our lives and the dispatch of business.

From a late work of Pessenden.

THE COQUETTE

"Dresses so neatly for a ball,
In truth, she's hardly dress'd at all;
A thing to Yankees quite distressing,
It leaves so little room for guessing
As how th' angelic little dragon
Would look without a single rag on."

ENLARGEMENT.

We have contemplated publishing the Gazette upon paper of super royal size with type entirely new, on an improved press, and, as heretofore, twice a week, if the plan should meet the approbation of the generality of our patrons. This would require the subscription price to be encreased from three to four dollars per annum, and that to be in all cases paid in advance.—The habits of the people and the circumstances of the times make it impossible to conduct a paper here, even with a large establishment, unless we determine to set out with a rigid adherence to this rule. With regard to the proposed enlargement, we shall give our subscribers time to consider and communicate their opinions upon the measure. If, before the first of June next, we find a sufficient number in favour of the plan, we shall then commence publishing a paper of the size and upon the terms which we have mentioned; at all events the above regulation in regard to payment must be adopted.

Our advertising custom, though necessary for our support, is already too great for our limits; and is daily encroaching upon that portion of our paper which we would wish to devote to useful and interesting matter. Pieces of any considerable length, though generally the most valuable, are excluded of course; and presently, with a paper of this size, we would be compelled to give only the most slight notices of the most important affairs. In a paper of super royal size, we could give at least twice as much general matter as we insert in this. We believe that the generality of our subscribers are too well aware of the incalculable value of their newspapers, as the common medium for the communication of universal knowledge, and the sine qua non of every politician and man of business for them to disapprove the plan and the improvement we have suggested.
